A creative introduction to ballet for primary school pupils and teachers

Teachers' Day

Date Sunday 6 July
11am – 4pm

Venue The Royal Ballet School
Covent Garden, London

Cost £70.00, including a copy of the primarySTEPS teaching resource

An introduction to the primarySTEPS resource and practical lesson ideas led by teachers from The Royal Ballet School's Dance Partnership & Access Programme. The resource is based on The Royal Ballet School's national primarySTEPS programme, which provides an accessible creative introduction to dance for primary school children and their teachers. It is designed to support teachers with cross-curricular learning and includes a written pack and accompanying digital resources for both practical and classroom use.

At the heart of the resource is a six-week scheme of work designed for Key Stage Two pupils. Extension and simplification suggestions make it suitable for use from Years 3-6. The primarySTEPS resource is not for sale and is therefore only available to those attending a Teachers' Day. No previous experience of ballet is required.

To apply please complete the booking form overleaf and return to Michaela Ellis by 23 May 2014.

The teachers' workshop was excellent. I have already used one of the lesson plans from the very informative pack – Primary school teacher

The lesson plans offer plenty of opportunities for higher ability children to guide others through mixed ability pairing and peer evaluation – Primary school teacher
